

TRANSCRIPT PREPARED BY THE CLERK OF THE LEGISLATURE
Transcriber's Office
FLOOR DEBATE

February 21, 2002 LR 6

don't know. The nature of a preacher is to preach. Whenever a preacher sees a captive audience, that's something in him that is put there through the genes, or her, will come forth and the person just goes on and on and on. But these senators who invite these preachers have an obligation to let them know what their role is. They're not going to convert anybody. They're not to preach a sermon. They should be very brief, to the point, shut up, and then they can hang around if they want to. But I am not going to stand by and watch these kind of activities go on. I listen in my office so that I'll know when to come up here and check in. I'm not going to say that what I've just uttered is the last I'll say on the subject, but I think it's enough for this morning because I've made my position clear. When these people come here, and I'll wrap it up, we have not checked in, so the Legislature is not in session. So that means anybody is free to come up here and walk around the floor and do what they want to do. I will show consideration to these people and my colleagues when they stand up there and pray or preach over you all, whatever they want to do, even though they know it's pointless and it doesn't even take on them. But I'm not going to be a nice person and listen to the sermons go on, or when somebody is giving their political views up there or supporting a political position of this country, I'm going to come up here and state my view at the same time. And if it turns into a shouting match, you all will see how business is conducted in England with their Parliament, where people talk out loud, where they boo, where they interrupt. And if that's the game you all want to play, I'm up to it. We're reaching the point in the session and I'm listening to things that senators are saying, hypocritical things, that have put me in the frame of mind now where collegiality is out the window. I also heard, and I hope it's a rumor, that my colleagues on the Appropriations Committee have converted the tobacco trust fund into a slush fund for the Governor, and I want to serve notice that if that's true you all are going to have a very hard time putting any additional tax on cigarettes. That is not going to be a way to increase the amount in that slush fund; and I'd hate to believe that my friends on the Appropriations Committee rolled over and became mats for the Governor to walk on, wipe his feet on, and show that he has not only no respect for the Legislature, no respect for the Appropriations Committee, but no
